

This letter is to ask you to allow satellite broadcasters such as XM and Sirius to continue to broadcast local traffic and weather. Many of us have switched over to satellite radio because traditional radio has become a vast corporate wasteland that no longer really cares about the listeners. The local traffic and weather updates that satellite radio broadcasts are very useful and helpful to us listeners. Instead of complaining about or trying to regulate what satellite broadcasters can transmit, maybe the traditional over the air broadcasters should concentrate their efforts on improving their own service/offerings.

Thank you,
Stuart Neft
